DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This unadorned duplex is at 129-131 Alice Anne Street in Bel Air, Harford County, Maryland. The structure, covered with asphalt tile, presents its gable end to the street. The entrances to the apartments are side by side in the center of the facade (north elevation), shaded by a porch with a shed roof and plain posts. The east half of the porch has a plain balustrade; the west half has none. The windows are 6/6 double hung sash set in plain wooden surrounds. A plain inside chimney rises in the center of the rear (south) gable.

The only way this house could be plainer would be if it had no porch.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This is a common enough house in Bel Air, plain, rectangular, with a porch. It is a two family dwelling and represents the rental housing built for blacks in the early years of this century. The white working man's housing of that period tended to have a bit of decoration although no more floor space.
